TRAGIC Cranberries singer Dolores O’Riordan will be buried alongside her late father, it has been claimed.

The rock star, who was found dead in a London hotel on Monday, will reportedly join Terence O’Riordan in a cemetery near her hometown of Friarstown, Co Limerick, Ireland.

Tragic Dolores O’Riordan died unexpectedly at the age of 46 on Monday

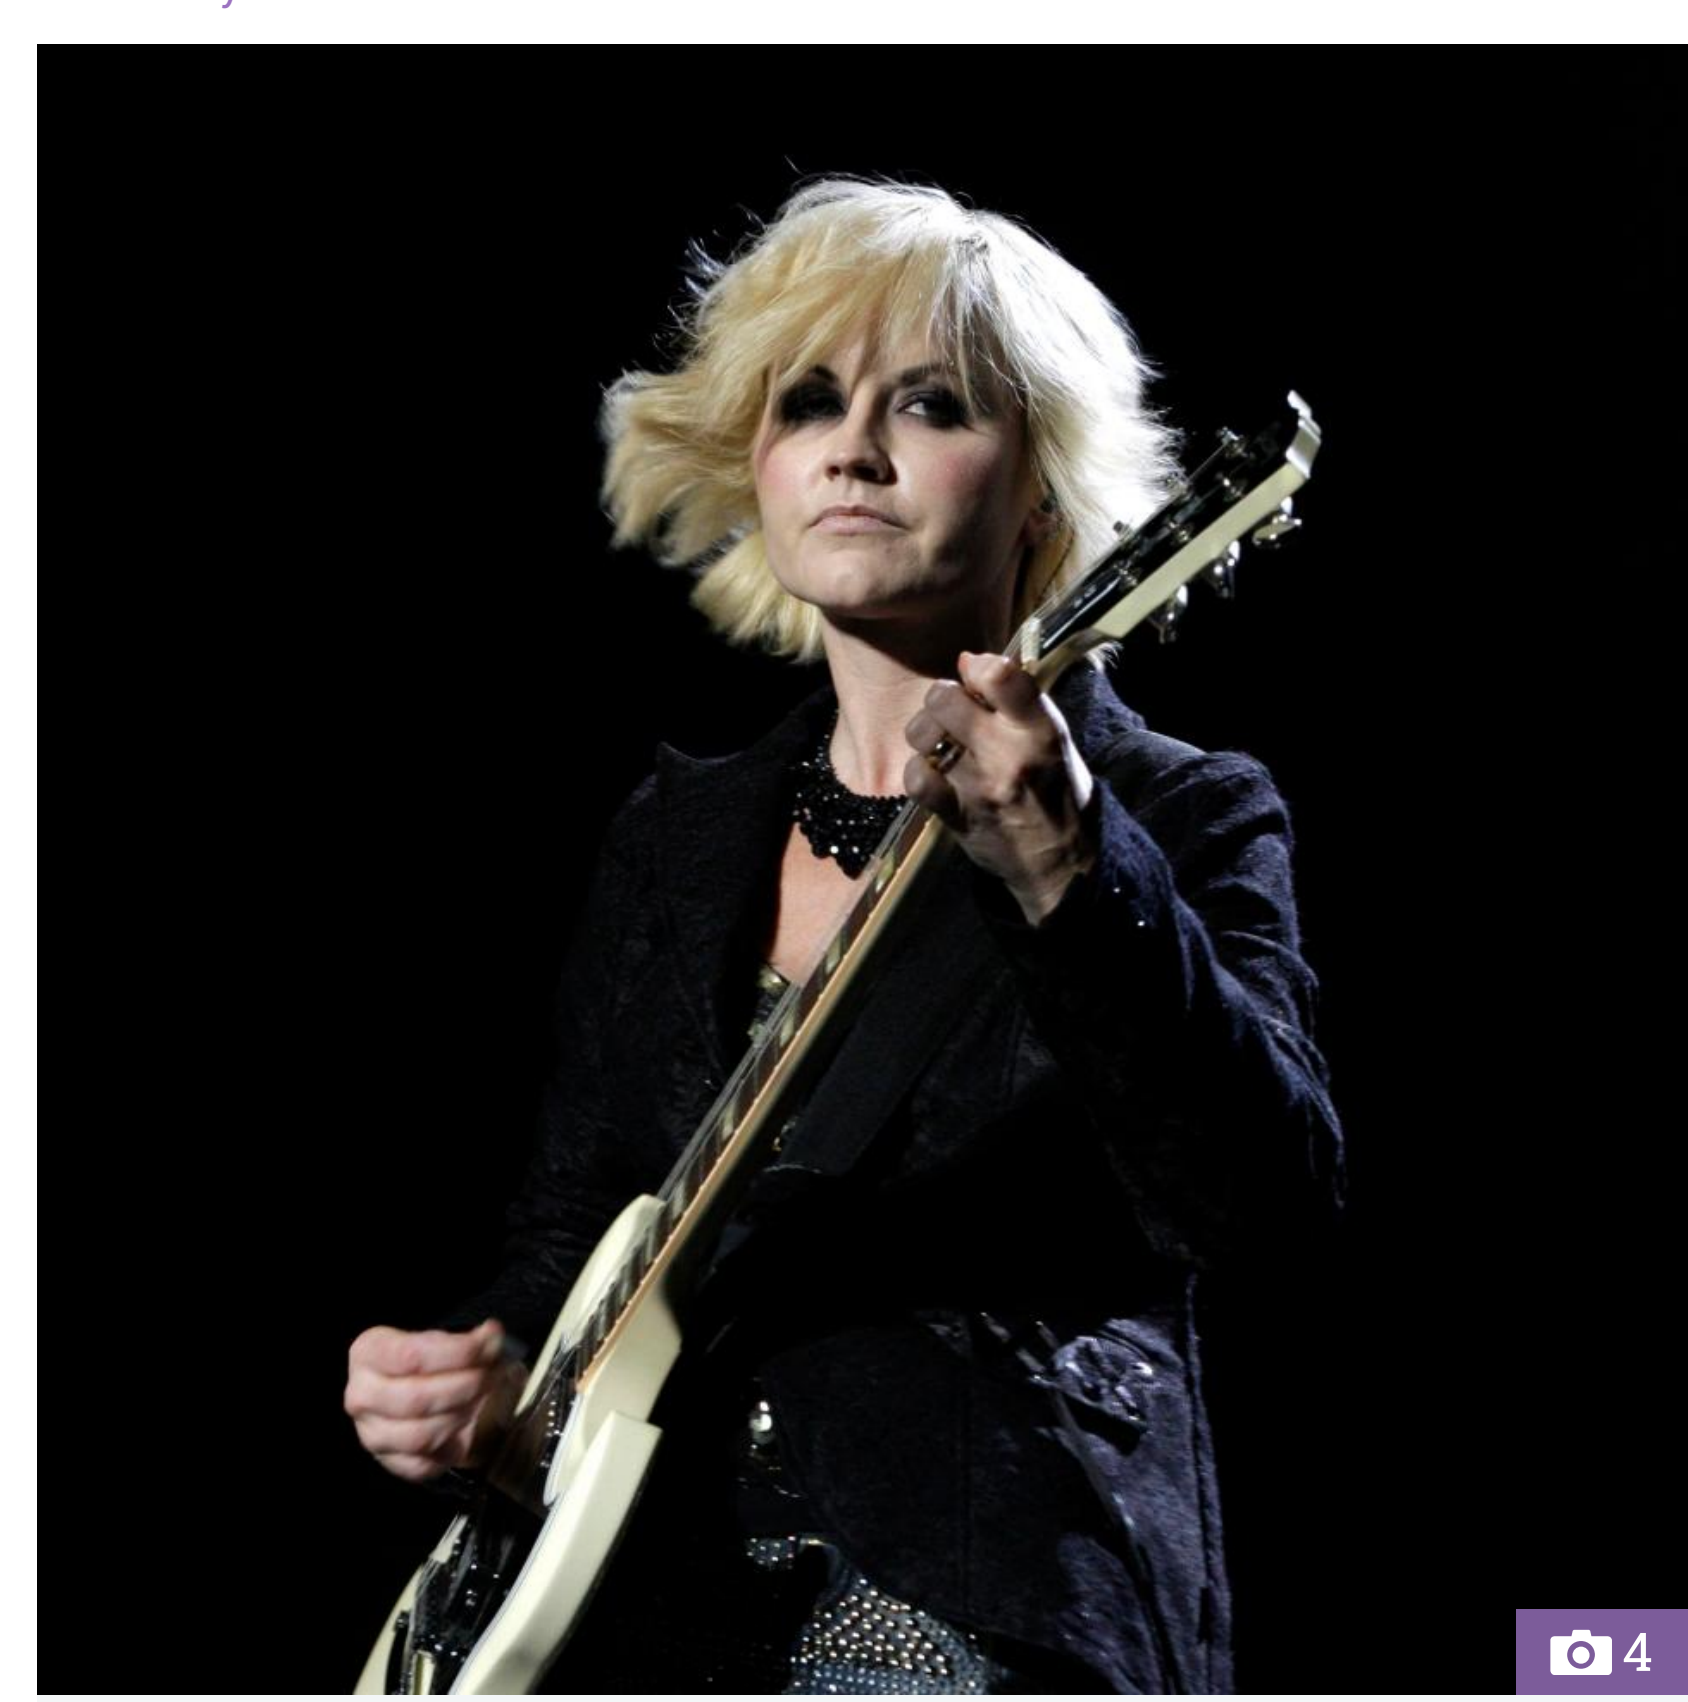

He died from from cancer aged 68 in 2011 before being laid to rest at the Caherelly cemetery.

Parish priest Father Walton is reported to have said plans were being drawn up to accommodate a large number of media for the service, which is expected to take place next week at the St Ailbhe’s church - two miles from the graveyard.

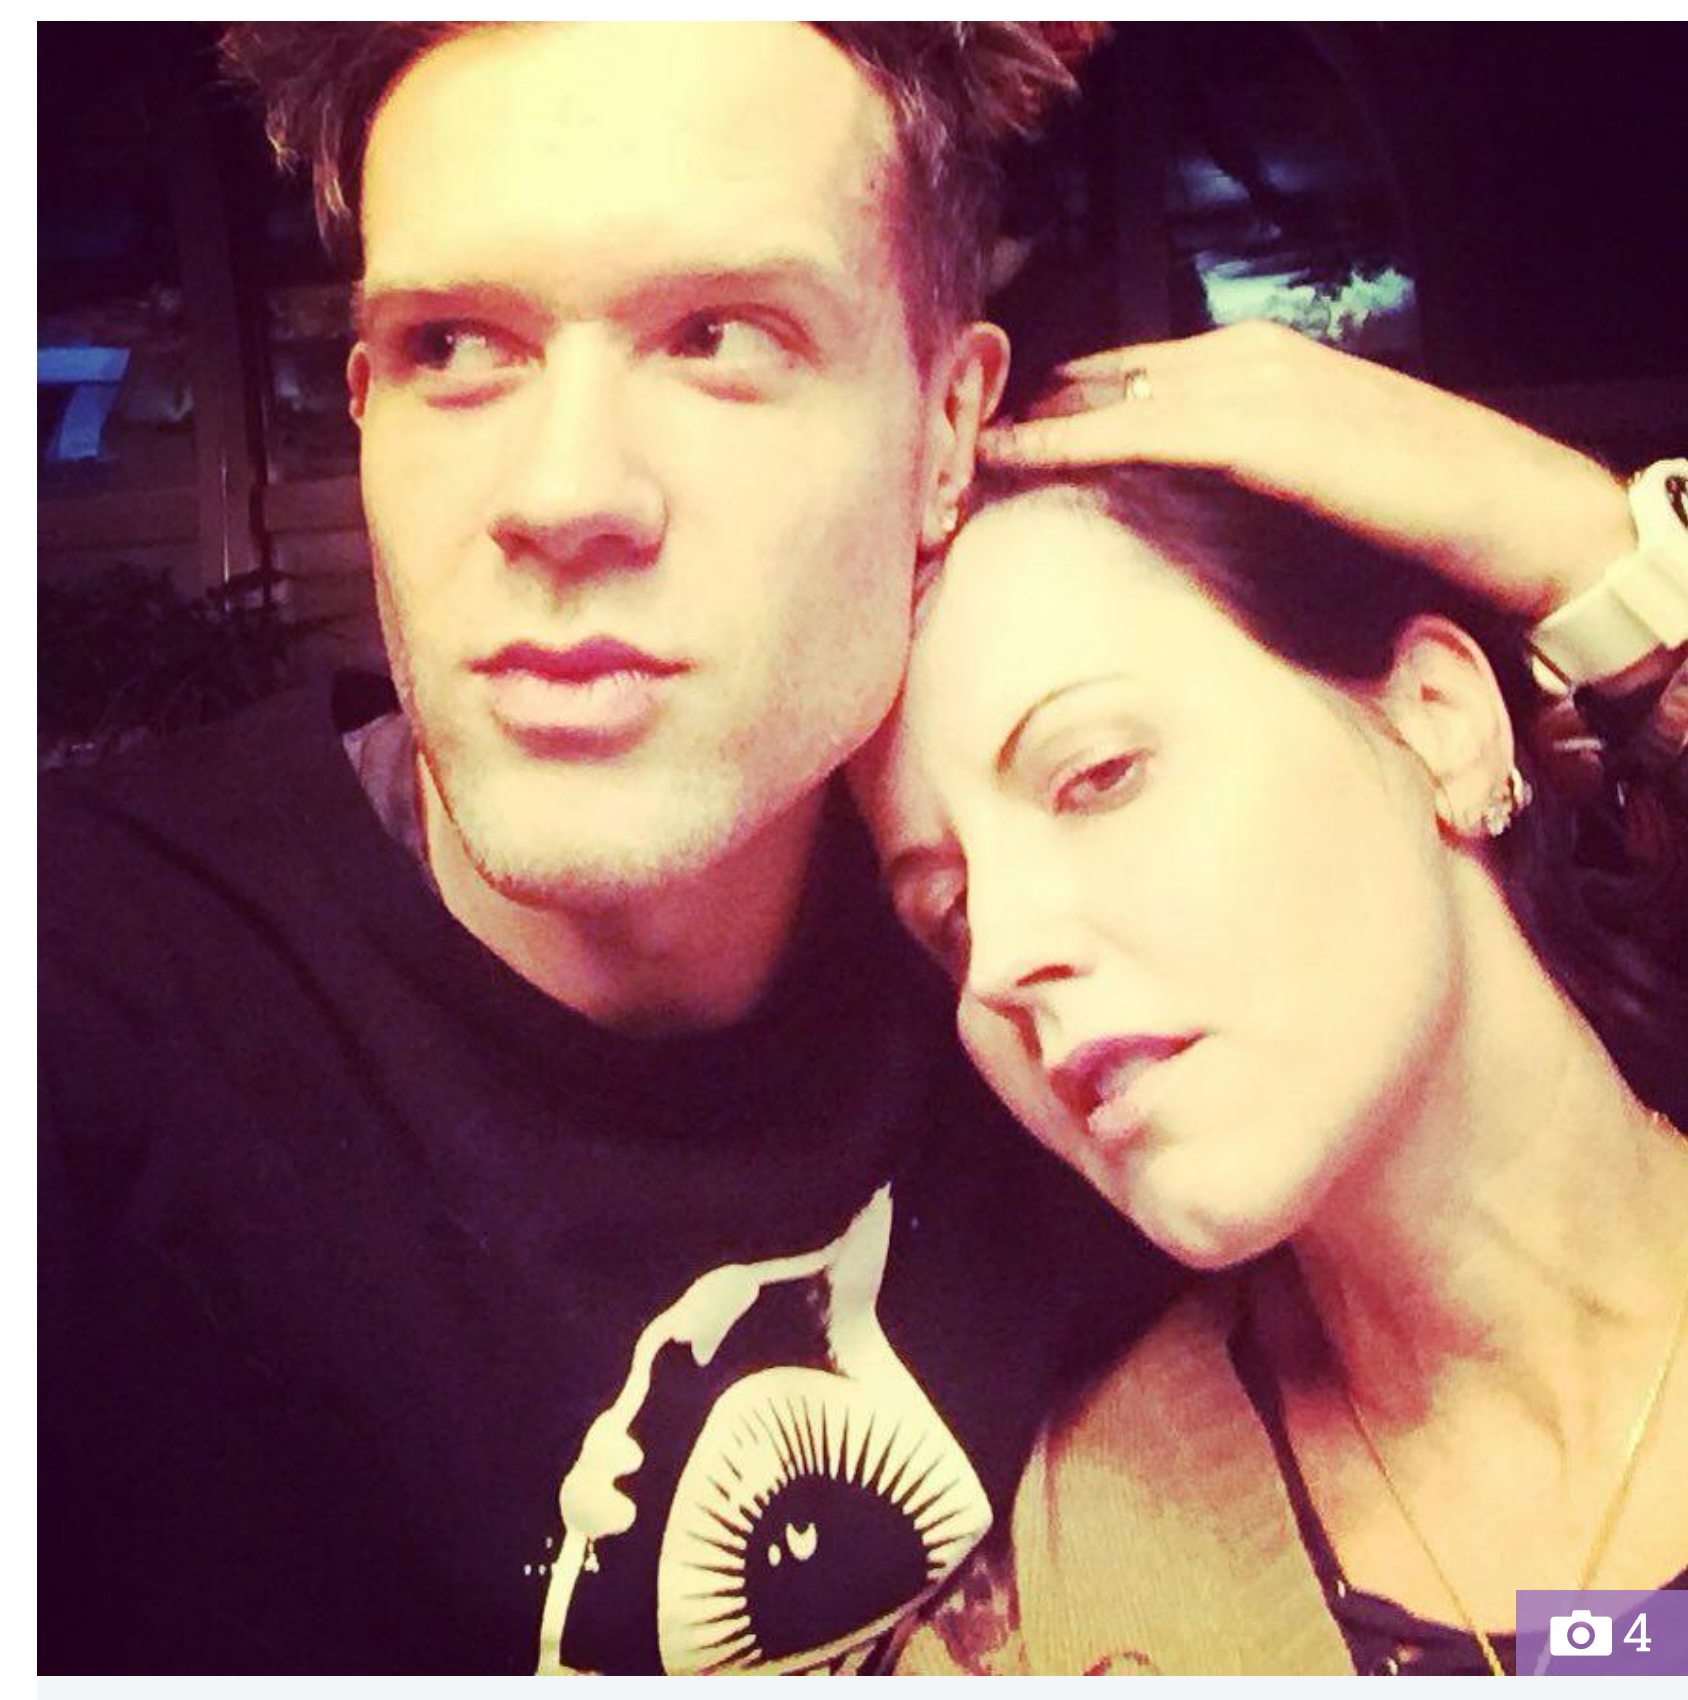

He told the Daily Mail: “I met Dolores when she came to the church with her mother. There were no airs and graces about her being a celebrity and all that.

“She was a perfectly nice woman and blended into the church.”

It comes ahead of her post-mortem taking place, with results expected to be issued later today.

Tributes have poured in from around the world for the Irish singer

Tragic O’Riordan was in a relationship with rocker Ole Koretsky at the time of her death

It comes as O’Riordan’s boyfriend broke his silence yesterday, saying his “heart is broken and beyond repair”.

Ole Koretsky, who played with O’Riordan in alternative rock band D.A.R.K, paid tribute to her in a statement on the group’s website.

He said: “My friend, partner, and the love of my life is gone.

“Dolores is beautiful. Her art is beautiful. Her family is beautiful. The energy she continues to radiate is undeniable.

O’Riordan was found in her room at a Hilton hotel in central London

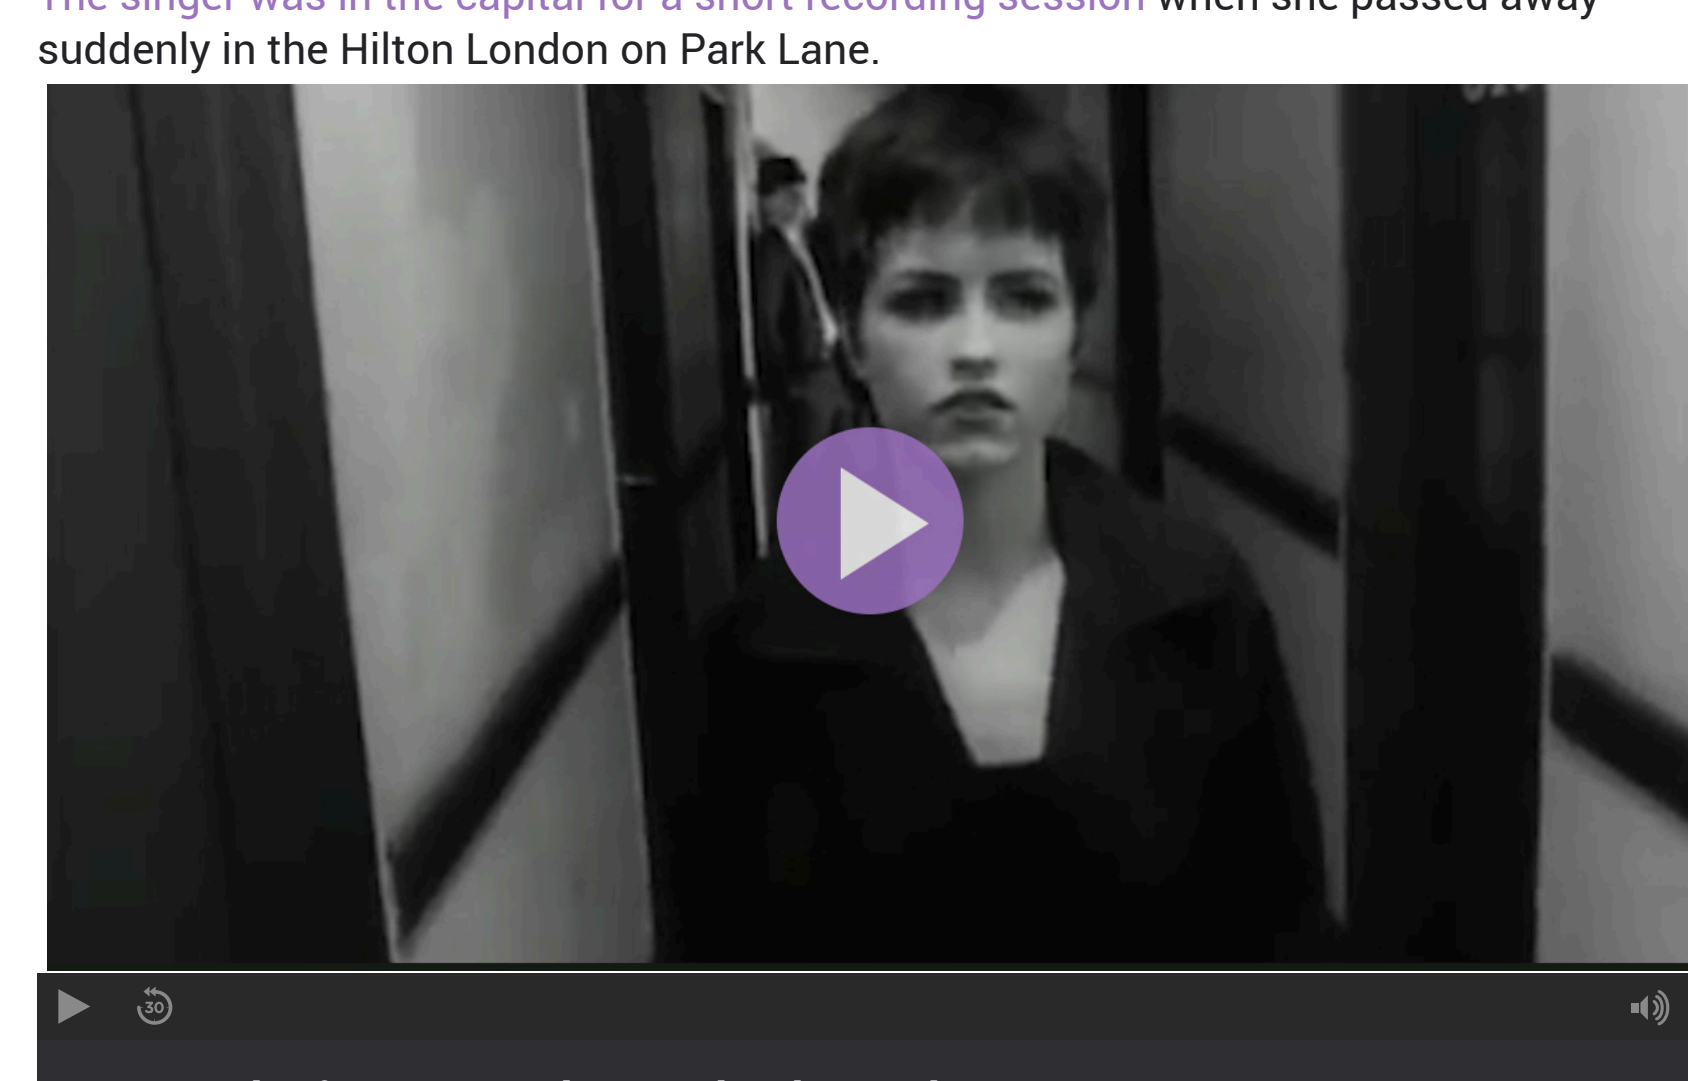

“I am lost. I miss her so much. I will continue to stumble around this planet for some time knowing well there’s no real place for me here now.”

The couple’s D.A.R.K. bandmate, Andy Rourke - former bassist of The Smiths - added he was “devastated” by her death.

He said: “I have truly enjoyed the years we spent together and feel privileged to call her a close friend.

“It was a bonus to work with her in our band D.A.R.K. and witness firsthand her breathtaking and unique talent. I will miss her terribly. I send my love and condolences to her family and loved ones.”

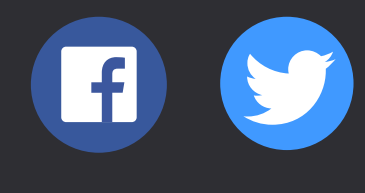

The singer was in the capital for a short recording session when she passed away suddenly in the Hilton London on Park Lane.
