Everybody Else Is Doing It, So Why Can't We?
The Cranberries ask the question

IT'S finally arrived, the album that Limerick has been waiting for... The Cranberries curiously titled Everybody Else Is Doing It, So Why Can't We? hit the shop shelves at the beginning of the week and it's hopefully the start of a career that will firmly place Limerick on the music map as the hometown of one of Ireland's most successful groups.

"Linger". Their partnership with producer Stephen Street is definitely to be regarded as a total success. His ability to give their songs an added something has given the whole project a special feeling. However, it goes without saying that without the band's undoubted song-writing ability there would have been nothing there to work with in the first place.

Memories of Queen at the Theatre Royal

Limerick's Theatre Royal has a real treat in store for all Queen fans on Sunday and Monday next, March 14 and 15, when The Memories highly acclaimed new show, A Kind Of Magic, comes to town.

Vibe Icon at the Savoy

Formed in 1991, Dublin outfit Vibe Icon are set to play a 'late gig' at Henry's Bar (Savoy) on Thursday next, March 11. This four-piece rock band write their own material and performed their first 'live' gig just over a year ago at the Baggot Inn.

Film Review ...

By JOHN O'SHAUGHNESSY

RECENT criticisms at the number of retentions and the resultant delay in getting new product to the Savoy must have registered with management. The famine eased last week with two new films — The Crying Game and Under Siege — and is taken a step further from this Friday with three more first runs, Lorenzo's Oil, Consenting Adults and Twin Peaks.

Consenting Adults is a seductive suspense thriller which is centred on neighbouring suburban families. The Parker's appear to have everything in their favour. They are not very wealthy, but are solvent. Their home is above the norm, their child shows promise and they run a reasonably successful business.

Well, the Tenth Commandment is broken. The men are drawn to each other's wife, with terrible consequences. A murder is committed, and an insurance fraud is alleged. It might all seem a bit far fetched, but then the world we live in is a strange sort of place.

That's the question facing desperate couple Auguston (Nick Nolte), an Italian economist, and his Irish-American wife Michaela (Susan Sarandon) in the highly acclaimed Lorenzo's Oil.

But as the little boy becomes more and more ill, his parents simply refuse to give up. As far as they are concerned where there is life there is hope and even though they have no medical training, they are convinced that with sufficient determination they can succeed where all the doctors have failed.

Racing against time, they begin the investigation that could save the life of their son and his fellow sufferers around the world. Defying disease and doctors, they steep themselves in matters clinical and chemical. All this, of course, puts a strain on their marriage.

This is a tear-jerker of a movie, but director George Miller avoids the pitfall of centring the entire story around the five-year-old, preferring instead to reveal the effects it

At the Belltable ... Aye, yes aye — Kevin's comin'

FEW comedians can claim to have floored audiences with humour which does not rely on jokes about politics or sex... one such individual is Kevin McAleer who first rose to prominence with a series of rambling, mock-nostalgic monologues on RTE's Nighthawks (RIP).

Kevin McAleer down with one backward glance or raised eyebrow. Kevin will be appearing — for two nights only — at the Belltable on Friday and Saturday next, March 12 and 13.
