

Lorcan ends The Cranberries deal speculation as . . .

Foul weather doesn't detract from the Lark and its lively atmosphere

LAST Sunday's 2FM Lark in the Park was, without doubt, the unqualified success that everybody involved in its production could have hoped for. No amount of grey 'n' overcast skies, dampness and nasty rain could diminish from the genuine feeling of excitement which engulfed all those who attended and, indeed, who took part in the annual event.

It is, for me, a welcome return to kind words for this very worthy 'day out' as last year I was, for numerous reasons, less than complimentary about proceedings. This time around, though, it was very noticeable that everything ran like clockwork and, more importantly, was seriously interesting from start to finish.

A lot of credit has to go to all those who got the show together — all at Treaty 300, Bob O'Connell and his crew, Frank Murray, Adrian Cunningham, Gary and the 'Harmony' clad security, etc., etc. They all played their part and some worked right through from the early hours to get the show up 'n' runnin' as near as was humanly possible to the appointed starting time.
