

Nov 22nd 2000

Hey there!

Hope you are all well. We are all back at home in Ireland now.

The mixing of the new recordings went really well. We were in London for two weeks and everything ran smoothly. Nine songs in all, two of which we played at the MTV gig in Dublin on the 11th of November last. "Analyse" and "Time Is Ticking Out". It was a nice gig, very relaxed and cosy. There wasn't much "rockin' out", as you will see from the photos (due any day now).

Dolores is quite pregnant. She was saying it felt a little weird to be onstage carrying that much weight, and she felt like jumping around but if she moved too suddenly her whole belly started to jiggle in a jelly-like fashion!!??!! Ohhhhoowww.

There is a possibility that "Analyse" will be used in a new movie coming out in February 2001, the name of which escapes my sieve shaped mind!?! But I do know it's a comedy starring Keanu Reeves and Charlize Theron, so at least you won't have to wait 'till autumn 2001 to hear new material!

.We have spent our time rehearsing since we got back from London. For the first few weeks we were preparing for the Dublin gig, but now we are solely concentrating on new songs. They are coming together really easily, I suppose it's because we are under no pressure. Our new regime, "Take it eazzzy-mon" (Must be said with Jamaican accent to get full effect). And I must say it 's working for us, we are having more of a laugh now than we have ever had. All the same I can't wait to get back into the studio, but it will be worth the wait because everything will be well rehearsed by April and it will enable us to work faster.

Storm (Thorgersen) tells me the work on the new site is going very well and it should be ready by January.

Some new photos are coming soon, we are just picking them out and stuff.

OK, that's it for now, see ya later.

-Fergal.
