Hello there!

This is Mike here in Ferg's corner! (I think this is my first ever contribution to the website!) I just got a home computer, and I am still checking it out and trying to teach myself what this email and website stuff is all about! I must say, it's a handy way of getting information fast and when you want it! (when you can find it, that is!)

So, I am going to test the email and send this to the Webmaster to put up on our site. Here's some news:

We are going to London this week to shoot the video for "Analyse" (which you know will be the first single from "Wake Up And Smell The Coffee"). The Director will be Kier McFarlane, who has worked with artists like Tom Petty and Janet Jackson. In 1993, the video for Tom Petty's "Mary Jane's Last Dance" won the MTV Video Music Award for "Best Male Video". Shooting starts on Thursday the 28th of June.

Well, that's it really! Everyone is in great form, and really looking forward to the release of the new album and also getting back on the road touring and gigging! I can't wait!

Oh, by the way, you may or not have heard that I am going to be a dad soon! We are expecting in October!

Good luck!

-Mike.
