Hey there,

It's me and I'm feelin' good. I'm off the cigarettes again so we'll see how it goes this time.

We filmed the video for "Time is Ticking Out" a couple of weeks ago in Dublin. It's kind of a "Wizard of Oz" theme, there was a lot of different set's with sunflowers, poppies and of course the "Yellow Brick Road"!! No witch this time though. It should be finished any day now and be out before Christmas.

We have been rehearsing for the past few weeks, preparing for our visit to the U.S. in December. I can't wait to play again. It feels like so long since we did a gig. All the interviews etc. are o.k. but give me a proper concert any day!! That's what it's all about.

We announced our first dates at a press conference in Madrid this week. So far, we have only announced confirmed dates. More dates will be announced over the coming weeks. We are starting in Copenhagen first. We have not been there since the Roskilde festival in '95. We have received many emails asking us if we are coming to Asia, South America and other markets...the answer is yes, yes and yes!!! The tour will travel the world.

There isn't much else to tell you at the moment I'm just sitting here in my kitchen waiting for my bread to finish baking, although I'm a little bit nervous as it's my first time ever so I hope it's tasty.

Talk to you soon,
Fergal

PS. Check out the Time Is Ticking Out (Club remix) by Marius de Vries using your web key. It is pretty cool and something special for all you club dwellers.
