Hey there, yes we are back on tour!! Coming soon to a city near you! We are in Geneva today and are playing a show here tonight. We had a day off here yesterday which was great as it gave me a chance to look around a bit and also to do some shopping. It's my son's birthday next week so I bought him a little tractor and trailer (I'll make a farmer out of him yet!!).

The gigs have been going really well. It takes a while to get a rhythm going and settle back into the touring lifestyle although some days it feels like you've never stopped, which is a bit freaky. The gig in Vienna the other night was fantastic, everything really fell into place and everyone was "on" as they say.

We are home for a few days on Thursday and then we are performing at the Meteor awards in Ireland on my birthday. The following day we head off to Paris to shoot a video for our new single "This Is The Day". We are working with Olivier Dahan again, which is great. He has incredible vision and it's always a good laugh working with him and his crew.

That's it for now, talk to you soon, -Fergal. (By the way, check the NEWS section. Plenty news coming today, I believe!)
