Hello there,

Back in Atlanta again. We played here last night and it was great, although I lost a couple of bucket's worth of sweat!! The gig was outdoors and the fires of hell would be runners up in the heat-stakes! Dolores' voice is back to full strength again, thankfully! If you were at the concert last night thanks a million for changing your plans to come see us. Much appreciated.

We recorded two songs in Miami. "New New York", which Dolores wrote the lyrics for when she got back to the hotel after the gig in NYC. The music is chunky guitars with heavy bass'n'drums, and to top it off a beautiful melody. The second song is called "Stars", which is a love song and I must admit it is really catchy. We played it live for the first time last night and the audience seemed to be into it, so that's a good sign.

This paragraph is devoted to all you World-Cup soccer fanatics!! What about Ireland going through to the next round eh? I am delighted! I've been trying to watch as many games as possible but the time difference makes it pretty difficult. We have to play against Spain on Sunday and that ain't going to be an easy game, but I have to be optimistic, there is always a chance!! I can't believe France and Argentina have gone home, they were two of the teams I'd have expected to be getting into the final! But what can you do, there's always a next time!

We are flying home today for a week off and then we're off to lovely Mexico. So I'll talk to you soon.

Take it easy
-Fergal.

P.S. "COME ON YOU BOYS IN GREEN!!!!!!!!!!!"
