Bualadh Bos: The Cranberries Live

2/15/2010 - With the recently reunited Cranberries world tour underway, there's a whirlwind of excitement and energy brewing around the band! If you don't have your tickets yet, the tour is quickly becoming a must see event so don't wait too long, many of the shows are already sold out!

Speaking of the excitement, on the eve of the tour the band learned that their former label, Island Records, has also caught the fever with the release of Bualadh Bos: The Cranberries Live.

While not being asked to participate in this release, or having any prior knowledge of it, the band is exceptionally proud of their 20 year history. However, the focus remains on the current worldwide tour, the future endeavours, and writing the next chapter in The Cranberries history!

Look for great new things to come, including more tour dates, new music, and brand new live material!

Guesstimation Sponsors Cranberries 2009 US Tour!

1/15/2009 - In Guesstimation™, the "Closest Guess Wins!" Unlike other trivia games, you don't have to know the exact answer—you just have to be the closest guess. It's that Easy!

During each round, a question is read and players write down their answer. For example, "How many hot dogs are eaten in North America every minute?" Go ahead, take a guess!

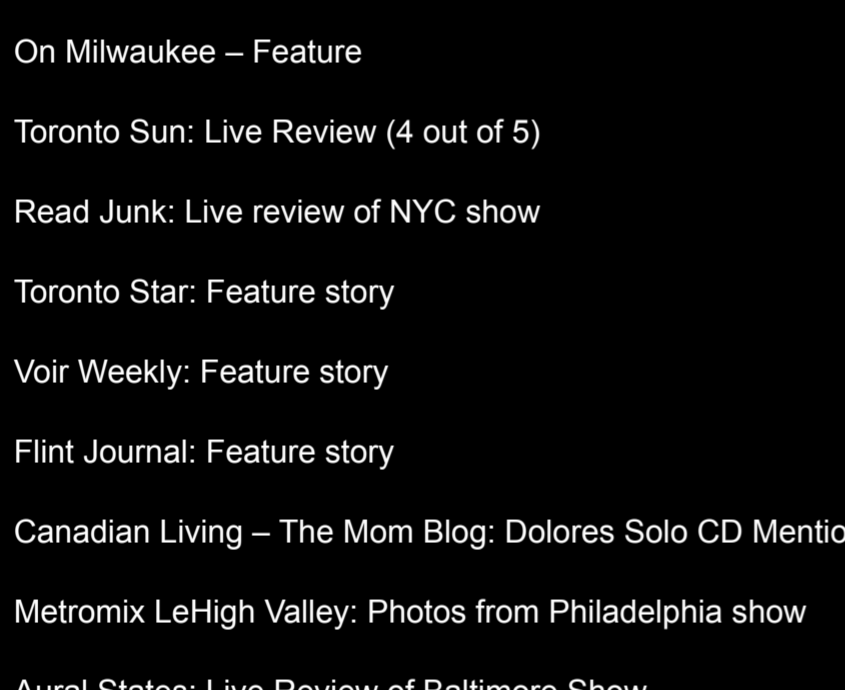

Next, each player reveals their guess and then the actual answer is given. Your answer may be off by 10 or 10 million, but as long as you are the player with the closest guess, you win the round.

The questions will make you laugh, reminisce about your youth, or start counting the hairs on your head!

So how many hot dogs are eaten in North America every minute?

(Answer: 37,900)

CRANBERRIES 2009 NORTH AMERICAN TOUR DATES ANNOUNCED!

9/23/2009 - THE CRANBERRIES TO TOUR FOR THE FIRST TIME IN SEVEN YEARS

19-Date Tour presented by Guesstimation; the party game where the closest guess wins.

September 23rd, 2009 - New York, New York - Dolores O'Riordan and the original members of The Cranberries will reform for the first time in nearly seven years for a live tour. "I've decided to reunite with my former band members in The Cranberries and we will be writing new songs and performing tracks off my new album as well as our greatest hits during the shows. I'd love to see you out there." O'Riordan stated. Guitarist and co-songwriter Noel Hogan offered "Over the last few years, each member of the band has had time to work on different projects and learn so much from their experience. Now the time is right for The Cranberries to bring all of this together and move forward." The 19-date tour is set to begin in Baltimore, MD on November 12th and is presented by Guesstimation; the party game where the closest guess wins.

In January, O'Riordan played a set at Dublin's Trinity College with band members and brothers Noel and Mike Hogan to commemorate her being made an Honorary Patron of Trinity's Philosophical Society. The performance was the first time the band members had seen each other since 2003. Never officially broken up, the band instead has been on hiatus, and being in the same room and playing music together for the first time made them realize how much they had missed each other.

Dolores O'Riordan has also released her solo album, No Baggage, via Zoe/Rounder Records in the U.S. and Canada and via Cooking Vinyl for the rest of the world. With No Baggage, O'Riordan's unforgettable, distinguished voice is back and better than ever. She co-produced and wrote all of the tracks on the album with Ontario-based Dan Brodbeck, resulting in a bright, clean sound that finds the singer's astoundingly emotive voice front and center, be it on the gorgeous piano ballad "Lunatic," the forthright, rocking track "Be Careful," or the infectious, driving lead single, "The Journey."

"I probably haven't worn my heart on my sleeve like this since the second Cranberries album (1994's No Need to Argue)," she says. "It's at times very confessional and dealing with my true emotions. Everyone, through their experiences or their background, has had terrible moments where they think they can't handle it. With this record I'm trying to show that, no matter how bad things may seem, it's not really that bad in the big picture," says O'Riordan.

Guesstimation, distributed by Discovery Bay Games, is unlike traditional trivia games, you don't have to know the exact answer to win the game. During each round, a question is read and everyone writes down their answer. For example, how many women go into labor on the New York City subway each year? After everyone has made their guess, the answer is revealed and the closest guess wins the round (Answer: 80). Guesstimation (2+ players, ages 8+) is available at Barnes & Noble Booksellers and Toys R Us stores nationwide and online at Barnes & Noble.com (www.bn.com) and toysrus.com

Led by "Linger," The Cranberries debut album Everybody Else Is Doing It, hit #1 in Britain. Follow-up No Need to Argue cemented the group's popularity via such popular tracks as "Zombie," "Ridiculous Thoughts," and "Ode to My Family," ultimately being certified 7x Platinum in the U.S. and 5x platinum in Europe (hitting # 1 in Germany, Austria, and Australia, and # 2 in the U.K.). The Cranberries had four top 20 Billboard albums, 8 hit singles, and worldwide sales of over 40 million records. The Cranberries have performed on several television shows such as The Tonight Show with Jay Leno, and The Late Show with David Letterman, and appeared on many magazine covers including Rolling Stone and Spin Magazine.
